Frankie was well known in the local and surrounding communities. He was a graduate of St. John High School in Plaquemine and the Barber College in New Orleans. He was a past member of the LA National Guard and the American Legion. In his youth, Frankie was King of the Teenage Carnival and a decorated sports standout. He was honored recently with induction into the St. John High School Athletic Hall of Fame. After graduation, Frankie continued his life-long love for sports by playing many years in the Plaquemine Men’s Softball League and boxing while in the military. He enjoyed spending time with family and friends. He always enjoyed family get-togethers, relishing good food and fellowship, especially during LSU football games. He loved to play basketball or football with his extensive family members.

Frankie was most well known for his talents as a barber and a hair stylist. He started his career at local shops and eventually owned several of his own, but everyone remembers the enduring “Super Hair.” During his prime, Frankie had people coming from all over the state to get their hair done by him.

In his later years, Frankie enjoyed studying the Bible and taking courses from Bible College in Florida, where he was working on his Dr. of Divinity degree. He was active for many years in Prison Ministry, and never missed the opportunity to share his knowledge or give his testimony to others. He was a member of First Baptist Church in Plaquemine. Those who would like to make a donation in his name may do so, to either First Baptist Church, 24525 Ory Ave., Plaq., 70764, or to The National Kidney Foundation, 30 East 33rd St., NY, NY 10016
