Jesse was LARGER than life. Truly one-of-a-kind! No one else like him. You could talk to him about science, politics, history, or your favorite Jerry Springer episode. He could then turn around and tell you all about the Bible, then always tell you to say your prayers. Jesse's enthusiasm for life was contagious. His greatest joys were spending time with his family, riding on his Harley or riding the 40, or spending time in the garden with his little mama. Jesse's presence was always so loud, and his absence is even louder. He will be greatly missed by everyone who knew him. God bless, Amen. HELL YEAH!!
